

Natasha Leo

Trainee Solicitor

 Manchester

natasha.leo@brownejacobson.com

+44 (0)330 0452307

Trainee solicitor Natasha is a former NHS Principal Clinical Scientist, was entered as a Fellow of the Royal College of Pathologists in 2012 (Clinical Genetics) and retains a specialist interest and expertise in genetics, cryogenics, biotechnology and bioinformatics. Additionally, Natasha serves as a part time volunteer reservist for the RAF supporting Air and Space Operations.

Natasha recently completed a Master of Laws degree in Medical Law and Ethics to complement her extensive experience in NHS clinical practice. Manchester Law School (MMU) awarded Natasha a scholarship to complete the Graduate Diploma in Law in recognition of past and potential future achievements of benefit to society.

Natasha is an active club level tennis player, regular outdoor runner, and yoga practitioner as well as participating in military fitness training. Her voluntary service for the RAF supports her values as an advocate of public sector departments and community engagement. Privately, Natasha has several years of involvement in leasehold property transactions and Landlord and Tenant Law. Natasha has interests in sports and fitness, health and wellbeing, property, aviation, space technology and engineering.

Expertise

Sectors

Health

Life sciences