Shortlisted for Lawyer of the Year 2022 at the MIMA, Holly specialises in Regulatory and Education work. Since her call to the bar in 2016 and completing pupillage at Browne Jacobson in 2019 Holly has built a thriving practice appearing regularly in front of Professional Conduct Panels, the First/Upper Tier Tribunal, HM Coroners and Judges ranging from District Judge to Court of Appeal.

Holly's highlights include obtaining a FGMPO on behalf of a school, representing education clients in defending disability discrimination claims, supporting health care providers through the coronial process, and prosecuting multiple day/week professional discipline cases. She is known for her sensitive approach when dealing with vulnerable witnesses.

Rated as on the 'Rising Star List' in March 2020, in celebration of international Women's Day for the Manchester's Evening News, Holly is passionate about encouraging future junior members of the bar and regularly participates in University and Lincoln's Inn Education events. This has included Ethics training and speaking at a 'Women in Law' event to talk about the particular issues facing female barristers. Holly has also acted as a Mentor within Browne Jacobson's Mentor Programme.

Holly was awarded Legal Professional of the Year, Manchester Young Talent Awards 2022.
