

retail

The retail industry today faces many challenges - whether it is the economy, changing methods of sale, access to suitable retail space, cost pressures or increased competition, access to expert advice is essential. Our lawyers understand the needs of retailers, with expert insight gained through many years of experience working in the sector. We provide down to earth and effective legal advice across all commercial and regulatory areas, to help our clients meet their objectives.

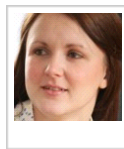

- our clients range from high street retailers to department stores and other niche retail organisations including designer labels, cosmetics companies, an international bakery, motor and charities
- depth of experience - over 20 years experience of specialist retail law advice
- dedicated retail lawyers - based in London and Nottingham, supported by experts
- specialist retail advice - real estate, property portfolio management, employment, brands, regulatory including health and safety, advertising and competitions, concession agreements, commercial contracts, disputes, e-commerce, consumer issues and data protection
- full range of additional legal services - including environmental, banking, employers and public liability, pensions and tax

Result: advice you can trust in challenging times; experts that add to your management team; effective strategies to meet your objectives
