

Browne Jacobson promotes 31 lawyers in latest promotion round

05 May 2022

National law firm Browne Jacobson has announced it has promoted 31 lawyers across the business, including six new partners, two legal directors and 23 Senior Associates, a record number for the firm.

The firm continues to make positive progress towards its diversity targets with 65% of the newly promoted lawyers being female and 16% identifying as UK minority ethnic.

The promotions run across multiple specialist legal teams in the firm, as well all five of its office-network with 13 in Birmingham, 8 in Nottingham, 6 in Manchester, 3 in London and 1 in Exeter.

Caroline Green, Senior Partner at Browne Jacobson, commented: "We are delighted to promote these 31 outstanding lawyers who are a great reflection of the wealth of talent throughout the firm.

"We are also proud to reaffirm our commitments to building a more inclusive culture, better representation within our business and contributing to a fairer and more equal society with greater diversity in our promotions this year.

"Since all of these lawyers began working at Browne Jacobson, each has shown real dedication to delivering a first-rate service to our clients and providing genuine strength and depth in their specialist fields.

"They will all continue to play an integral role in helping Browne Jacobson achieve its future strategic ambitions and we are looking forward to them developing their professional careers with us."
