

Designing the future: co-operation and constraints within new ICS systems

This exclusive free webinar is an opportunity to debate and discuss how organisations can effectively respond to the new design framework.

14 July 2021

This online event took place on 14 July 2021 and is now available on-demand. The content in this recording was correct as of the original webinar date.

This on-demand video discussed how organisations can effectively respond to the new design framework within which to reflect on what challenges and opportunities the new framework brings for emerging ICSs, from the perspective of both individual organisations and collaborative systems.

Featuring reflections and expert input from sector legal advisors Browne Jacobson, and healthcare governance and strategy specialists thevaluecircle, this session is aimed at CEOs, chairs, and executive directors of NHS organisations. The event will be chaired by Sir Neil McKay, Strategic Consultant for Browne Jacobson, who has a long and distinguished career in senior leadership positions in the NHS in England.
