

COVID-19 for local authorities, arms length bodies and government - 19th May 2020

An update on NHS reconfiguration, service change and consultation post-lockdown, using s75 agreements (Hospital Discharge Service Requirements) and mental wellbeing of employees.

20 May 2020

This webinar took place on 19 May and is now available on-demand.

In this Covid-19 on-demand webinar, a number of key members of the team alongside guest speaker Rose Grogan from 39 Essex provide an update on current issues arising in relation to the pandemic and its effect on local authorities, arms length bodies and government.

NHS Reconfiguration, Service Change and Consultation post-lockdown by Rose Grogan – 39 Essex

As the NHS slowly shifts away from crisis mode to living with coronavirus, commissioners will need to re-examine their plans for change and integration. The government will be grappling with public pressure to maintain or increase funding to the NHS while also trying to mitigate the worst effects of a global recession. What will be the fate of plans for new models of care and service change? Will changes to service provision prompted by coronavirus stay for good? How will CCGs manage to fulfil their statutory duties of patient engagement when social distancing is still in force.

Using s75 agreements to underpin the Covid-19: Hospital Discharge Service Requirements by Rachel Whitaker

The Covid-19 Hospital Discharge Service Requirements implemented by the Government anticipate local authorities and CCGs needing to revisit and amend existing section 75 partnership agreements to support the implementation of the Requirements. Rachel highlights the issues to look at when making the necessary changes and what to think about in terms of transitioning back to the normal funding arrangements once the arrangements come to an end.

The impact on the mental wellbeing of employees during the pandemic by James Fawcett

There is potentially a growing risk to the mental wellbeing of employees during the pandemic, both in terms of key workers on the front line and staff who are required to work at home for an extended period. We consider those risks and the steps that can be taken to reduce them.

Speakers

James Fawcett
Partner

james.fawcett@brownejacobson.com

+44 (0)115 908 4874

Rachel Whitaker
Partner

Rachel specialises in procurement law, commercial contracts, projects; extensive experience of complex and strategic procurement projects.

rachel.whitaker@brownejacobson.com

+44 (0)115 976 6538

Contact

Rachel Whitaker

Partner

rachel.whitaker@brownejacobson.com

+44 (0)115 976 6538

Related expertise

Government

Health and life sciences