

Care Focus: Critical incident inquests

12 May 2025

This event took place on 12 May 2025, and is now available to watch on-demand.

There's been an unexpected death in the care home - what do you do?

Hear from Assistant Coroner, Partner and Barrister, Fiona Butler and inquest Barrister, Sarah Vince, as they discuss the inquest process; helping you to understand the coroner's role, how to assess organisational risk, and how to support your staff.

An inquest is more than a fact-finding exercise. What you say can have implications for the criminal investigation, for your professional registrations and in civil proceedings. There is also a grieving family. Preparation and transparency are key.

This session aims to help you understand how to react when the unexpected happens, to ensure your organisation is well prepared and well supported:

- What evidence to gather.
- Can we talk to the family?
- How to work alongside the police.
- What do staff need to be told?
- What is article 2 and does it really apply?
- Prevention of Future Deaths reports.
