

Register your interest

Medical negligence and report writing foundation course: Autumn 2025

📍 Browne Jacobson Birmingham office

📅 22 September 2025

This course will provide clinicians with the requisite knowledge and skill to become an expert witness in medical negligence claims. Delegates will experience 'bite sized' expert witness learning sessions interspersed with reflection time and Q&A sessions to embed learning.

The session will be led by lawyers, Louise Jeffers, Partner, and Kate Westley, Principal Associate. Both are medical legal specialists and have extensive experience in medico-legal claims.

This course offers a strong foundation in medico-legal practice. You will be guided through the medical negligence process, including the relevant legal tests and expert witness responsibilities. We will utilise template expert reports for review and reflection. Q&A sessions will ensure a personalised learning experience.

Feedback from previous events includes:

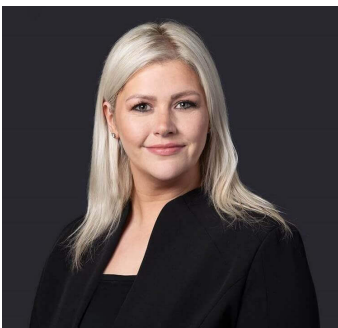

"Both speakers today were fantastic, excellent presentation," and all participants concluded that they were "extremely likely" to recommend the course to a colleague.

If you are interested in attending this course, please register your interest by selecting which date/s work for you (September and October dates available).

Register your interest →

<https://www.brownejacobson-updates.com/24/4827/landing-pages/rsvp-website.asp>

Contact

Louise Jeffers

Partner

louise.jeffers@brownejacobson.com

+44 (0)121 237 3923

Kate Westley
Principle Associate

Kate.Westley@brownejacobson.com

+44 (0)330 045 2344

Related expertise

Dispute resolution and litigation

Health law

Medical treatment decisions and disputes

Mental capacity and the Court of Protection