

Brexit overview: your use of data and Brexit

Despite the lack of clarity around Brexit, there are key data issues that can be addressed now. We can help you with the steps you need to take to mitigate the risks.

30 September 2020

The transition period in which the status quo has been maintained in relation to data protection law will come to an end on 31 December 2020. UK companies need to urgently plan to ensure compliance with the law relating to data protection and privacy particularly as regards cross border transfers. Despite the lack of clarity around the position following the end of the transition period, there are key data issues that can be addressed now. We can help you with the steps you need to take to mitigate the risks.

Key issues

- GDPR
- Appointing representatives
- Data transfers and the UK's 'third country' status
- Adequate safeguards
- ePrivacy.

Download guide

/BrowneJacobson/media/Media/Imported/brexit-overview-your-use-of-data-and-brexit.pdf?ext=.pdf

Contact

Mark Hickson

Head of Business Development

onlineteaminbox@brownejacobson.com

+44 (0)370 270 6000

Related expertise

Commercial law

Data protection and privacy

French group

International

International trade and commerce