Georgia is an Associate in the Manchester employment team focusing primarily on the employment healthcare sector. She manages complex employment tribunal claims and advises on non-contentious employment matters. Georgia also has experience conducting workplace investigations for public sector clients.

Her work covers a range of employment law issues including discrimination, dismissal, and whistleblowing issues. With her knowledge of the healthcare sector, Georgia can assist with specific healthcare topics such as MHPS and regulatory settlement parameters, ensuring compliance with healthcare policies and procedures.

Georgia's experience also extends to advising on and conducting internal workplace investigations ensuring that internal processes adhere to the highest standards of fairness and legality. She offers strategic guidance on non-contentious matters, helping organisations interpret and apply employment laws effectively.
