Lewis is a solicitor apprentice in our financial and professional risk team specialising in professional indemnity, dealing with the defence of solicitors' professional negligence claims.

Lewis has experience of working within the London insurance market and has recently completed a secondment with a large insurer working within the financial and professional lines claims team, assisting in managing its international and SME solicitors' professional indemnity portfolios.

Lewis' solicitor apprenticeship has provided him with experience in dealing with catastrophic injury; employers and public liability; motor; credit hire; property damage and recoveries. Lewis has also completed additional secondments with insurers.
