William is a solicitor–advocate specialising in Healthcare and Advisory work. He acts on behalf of NHS Trusts, NHS Resolution and private healthcare providers in relation to Inquests, Court of Protection and other healthcare matters.

Prior to joining Browne Jacobson, William qualified as an Osteopath in 2010 and worked clinically in the field of musculoskeletal medicine for several years. Following his conversion to law, William started his legal career in Personal Injury and Clinical negligence for a large international law firm before working in house for a private indemnifier (The Medical Protection Society) and two large Acute NHS Trusts.

William uses his unique blend of clinical and legal experience to assist Browne Jacobson's clients with their healthcare queries.
